

Posterior predictive checks for the multilevel generalised model

The dark blue density depicts the raw data whereas light blue densities represent data simulated from the posterior predictive distribution

